

Latin American & Iberian Institute

PhD Fellows Colloquium

Friday, March 31

3:00p.m

LAI Conference Room
(801 Yale Blvd. NE)

Join us for the Latin American & Iberian Institute's annual LAI PhD Fellows Colloquium, an afternoon of presentations highlighting the work of exceptional doctoral students across campus whose research and writing explore important topics in Latin American and Iberian scholarship.

3:00PM

Welcome

3:00-3:30PM

PANEL I:

"The Environment and Communal Practices"

Caitlin Ainsworth, "The Birds of Paquimé"

Valerio Di Fonzo, "Examining the Practices of Eco-theology: A Study of Catholic Environmental Ethics in the Peruvian Amazon"

3:30-4:15PM

PANEL II:

"Approaches to Indigenous Heritage and Linguistics Transformations"

Josue Aciego, "Are they Indians?: Land Tenure in an Autonomous Community in El Salvador"

Daven Hobbs, "Grammatical Complexity, Language Contact, and Morphosyntactic change in Nheengatu"

Jens Van Gysel, "The Influence of Language Endangerment on the Linguistic structure of Sanapaná"

4:15-5:00PM

PANEL III:

"Public Discourse, Economic Development, and Political Action"

Carter Barnwell, "Wars of Position: The Construction of an Antifacist Public Sphere in Spain, 1931-1939"

Daniel Clayton, "Return Migration as a Catalyst for Reducing Inequality, Poverty, and Increasing Income in Mexico"

Edrea Mendoza, " 'Planificar es cuestión de querer': Sex Education, Family Planning, and Women's Reproductive Health in Cold War Mexico"