

BOOK TALK:

Creating Third Spaces of Learning for Post-Capitalism: Lessons from Educators, Artists, and Activists in Buenos Aires, Argentina • THURSDAY • OCTOBER 5 • 3:00PM • HYBRID • LAII CONFERENCE ROOM, 801 YALE BLVD NE • ZOOM (LINK HERE)

In this book, the authors' post-capitalist approach to change focuses less on what we need to dismantle and more on what educators and activists are building in its place. Studying schools and other social organizations in the Global North and South, the authors identify and examine some of the most interesting counter hegemonic spaces in both formal and informal education today. They view these spaces through a lens of what Gloria Anzaldúa calls borderlands or "third spaces." These third spaces are created in-between our lived cultural and social identities (first space) and the dominant culture that seeks to define us (second space). This book seeks to better understand how these third spaces conceive of learning, how they are created, and more.

Gary L. Anderson is a former high school teacher and principal, who is currently professor emeritus of Educational Policy and Leadership at New York University. Throughout his career, he has explored the effects of neoliberal capitalism on schooling, professionalism, leadership, policy, and social activism. He has worked, lived, studied and done research in Mexico and Argentina. His most recent book is Creating third spaces of learning for post-Capitalism: Lessons from educators artists and activists.

Ana Inés Heras is a Professor and National Researcher (CONICET) at Universidad Nacional de San Martín, Buenos Aires, Argentina. Her areas of expertise are interactional sociolinguistics and ethnography. She works with self-governed groups in Argentina (e.g. workers' cooperatives, community centers, social cooperatives to support integration of people who suffer from mental health issues) and does co-elaborative research, teaching and outreach. She coordinates the Programa "Aprendizaje de y en Autogestión." She is also the acting president of INCLUIR - Instituto para la Inclusión Social y el Desarrollo Humano in Buenos Aires, and she sits at the International Community Economies Institute Board.

This lecture is free and open to the public. Individuals of all abilities are encouraged to attend LAII-sponsored events. If you require a reasonable accommodation to participate in one of our events, please visit laii.unm.edu/events/accessibility.html or contact laiioutreach@unm.edu