Poverty and Political Participation in Latin America

Carew Boulding, University of Colorado at Boulder

FEBRUARY 26

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 26 • 12:00 PM
ZIMMERMAN LIBRARY, WILLARD ROOM

Join us for a campus presentation with Dr. Carew Boulding, Associate Professor of Political Science and the University of Colorado Boulder. She holds a PhD from the University of California San Diego, and is the author of the book, NGOs, Political Protest, and Civil Society, published by Cambridge University Press in 2014. She is currently working on a new book on poverty and political participation in Latin America. She has also worked on NGOs and credit-claiming, the impact of participatory budgeting on well-being, political competition and social spending, and voter turnout in Bolivia and Brazil, civil society and support for democratic political systems, and attitudes of indigenous people toward the government in Bolivia. Her work has been published in Journal of Politics, Comparative Political Studies, Latin American Research Review, Party Politics, Studies in Comparative International Development, and World Development.

This lecture is free and open to the public. It is co-sponsored by the Department of Political Science and Latin American and Iberian Institute (LAI), and presented as part of the Spring 2018 LAI Lecture Series with support from the US Department of Education Title VI.
